SUMMER COURSES FOR INDIVIDUALS

“We offer a wide range of interactive and engaging courses for individual students”

I’m delighted to present the prospectus for our 2023 summer courses, featuring the fantastic range of programmes that CATS Global Schools provides. It was wonderful to experience the demand for our courses after two years where students were denied the opportunity to travel. It was inspiring to see so many students, from so many different countries, enjoying learning at our schools again during the summer - taking great steps forward in their science or business knowledge, their practical arts skills, their football skills, or their academic skills in English. What was most evident about the experience in summer 2022 was how much our students learned about themselves and each other during their stays. We can’t wait to welcome a new cohort to summer 2023!

LEARN FROM PROFESSIONALS

Our Illustration & Comics course is taught by Kent Archer. Kent has taught art courses at the School of the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston, Sacred Heart High School in Kingston Massachusetts and numerous local art centers. He has worked in the field of comic books since 2005 when he co-launched the popular webcomic – Dr McNinja. His work has been published by Archie Comics, IDW Publishing, Dark Horse Comics, and Topps Trading Cards

BROADEN YOUR SKILLS IN THE INDUSTRY

Kent Archer has studied under some of comics’ biggest and most successful artists, and his work has been published by mainstream comic companies. You will learn the process behind making comics as well as learn the secrets to being successful in the comic book business. This course will help you prepare for portfolio reviews with editors as well as emphasize the importance of meeting deadlines once you’re given your first comic book gig!

DEVELOP YOUR SKILLS IN:

In this introductory course, students will develop skills across all phases of the comic book creation process. From writing to coloring, students will explore and experiment with the tools, formats, and mediums used by professionals.

SCRIPTWRITING

In the business of comics, it is often the case where one person writes the story and another draws the comic. Students will learn how to put their vision into words and write a detailed, professionally formatted script.

DEVELOPING CHARACTERS

What makes a character relatable and believable? Why do we care about characters and how do they affect our emotions? We will discuss these ideas and learn how to write multidimensional characters.

COMIC VOCABULARY

What is a panel? What are closure and juxtaposition? We will discuss the terminology in the universal language of comics.

DIGITAL COLORING

Capture the eye of the reader with brilliant colors using Adobe Photoshop. We will learn the importance of a limited color palette and how to effectively create mood and contrast.

PAGE LAYOUT AND COMPOSITION

Comics are a visual medium first and foremost. A visually enticing comic page can help effectively tell the story. The job of the artist is to create illustrations that capture the reader, tell the story and, simply put, look cool!

PERSPECTIVE

The ability to draw characters and environments in perspective is essential in creating the illusion of depth. This illusion helps create a believable three dimensional world on the comic page.

THE BUSINESS OF COMICS/ SELF-PUBLISHING & WEB COMICS

So, now you want to make comics for a living. We will discuss how to break into the mainstream business and work for the largest publishers as well as self-publishing your work in print or on the web.
